

How to learn a foreign language

Many people think that research paper writing service in order to know a foreign language, they must have a base school, but very wrong in that. People who got good grades in school, can't have a simple conversation with a foreigner.

To learn languages takes years of practice and theories, with a special rate.

Once the main methodology for the study had classes with the teacher-native speaker or reading fiction/scientific literature.

Time passed and the techniques evolved, now there are many processes of learning foreign languages. This article will describe several effective methods.

Communicative method

This is one of the effective methods. To learn a language, talking with his carrier much easier and faster in the learning process, you need to find yourself a pair or group to work together. There is also the option with the inclusion of theatrical scenes or discussion of stories.

The method of physical response

This method is based on the fact that the very first lessons a student learns a foreign phrase, do not need any verbal response. After a few lessons, a student undergoing a period of development of external structures or with other words, internalization, where he can easily understand all the process.

Method of sound associations

There is one not bad technique, developed by Stanford University Professor Atkinson. He suggested to memorize the words sounding with known words in their native language, for example, the word "tree" from the tree. Sound like some kind of number three on Russian language. That is, hearing the word in English, we recall a similar consonance in Russian.

Stickers with name

Perhaps the easiest method, it is necessary for those who have just started to learn a foreign language. This method includes learning nouns. For example, write on the sticker "table" and pasted it on the table. Plastered so most of the things in the house, reading them every day, you can automatically learn a signed "leaves".

Full immersion

One eminent Professor advised this method in 1878. The method is based on the fact that the student is fully dipped into the role of the foreign citizen and with his band begin a new life of the foreigner. In this method, it is forbidden to speak in their native language, you can apply the knowledge that has student. The main advantage of this technique is; the learner is in constant contact with the other person only in a foreign language that allows you to adapt to your language.

But still, the best method of learning foreign languages is the common practice. Most people who study the language for more than 5 years, complain that they still don't know him. However, the problem with these people is that they give the study a rather small amount of time. If a person wants to know the language at least at conversational level, it is necessary to teach the theory and words every day.

Also, it would be a good solution to always have a dictionary, listen to foreign songs, watch foreign films and read books. If You are tired for the whole day, doing their business, then the best solution would be to watch a movie in a foreign language. While watching a movie, not to listen to what the characters say, on a subconscious level, the information will still go to the brain. Good option with watching foreign videos with subtitles. Not worth much to focus on grammar, if the student uses techniques that were given in this article, the grammar is easier to learn after these methods.
